Summer I: May 16-June 11

History 100: Global History

Broad introduction to global history, by exploring the global structures and transnational forces that have shaped human history, from the emergence of agriculture and urban centers to our contemporary global village. This course can be used to fulfill either Western or Nonwestern general education categories but not both.

History 172: US History since 1877

Evolution of an industrial, urbanized, and pluralistic society, grappling with domestic and global problems. Credit is not given for both HIST 172 and either HIST 173 and HIST 272.

History 376: Soc History Indus Am from 1918

Study of the impact of industrial technology, business enterprise, immigration, and urbanization on American society. Prerequisite: One year of college history or consent of instructor.

Summer II: June 13-August 6

History 273: Illinois History

History of Chicago and Illinois from prehistoric times to the present, illustrating the jarring conflicts and great achievements of peoples from all over the world. Politics, economics, popular and high culture, education, mass media, racial problems, and ethnic diversity are especially featured. There is an emphasis on the relation of city, state, and region to one another.
History 352: Europe in the World Since 1750

Colonial encounters between Europe and today's Third World viewed in comparative historical perspective. Equal emphasis placed on (colonizing) Europe and colonial experience of Asia, Africa, and South America. Prerequisite: One year college level history.

History 374: Civil War and Reconstruction

Study of the impact of industrial technology, business enterprise, immigration, and urbanization on American society. Prerequisite: One year of college history or consent of instructor.